La pace positiva

È stato inserito il concetto di “pace positiva” nell’Azione d’interesse pubblico. Si tratta di un concetto elaborato dallo studioso norvegese Johan Galtung, che ha distinto due tipi di pace:

la pace negativa cioè l’assenza di guerra e violenza e la pace positiva che è più duratura perché costruita su atteggiamenti sociali che promuovono la pace e sullo sviluppo economico sostenibile.

L’impegno del Rotary verso la pace ha una definizione più completa e attuale che consentirà a tutti i Club di operare più efficacemente.

The Best Is Yet to Be

IS EVERYTHING all right in Rotary? If so, God pity us. We are coming to the end of our day.

That unique philosopher Charles F. Kettering, head of the research department of General Motors, puts it this way:

"When the automobile came into existence, we went on the theory that everything was all right until it proved itself all wrong. When an automobile broke down, we knew it was wrong and set about to improve it."

The same backward policy obtained throughout the business world at that time. Manufacturers boasted that their product had stood the test of generations. What was good enough for grandfather was good enough for grandson.

Then came the great change in the philosophy of the automobile business. It switched clear around from the theory that everything was all right to the theory that everything was all wrong. Then they began to get somewhere in the automobile business.

Is everything all right in Rotary? No, thank God, everything is all wrong. There probably is no part or parcel of Rotary which can't stand improvement. Quoting Kettering again: "A reasonable discontent is what makes it possible to improve our product." The poet Milton expressed the same sentiment when he coined the phrase "a divine discontent."

By the same token, may it not be said that a reasonable discontent with what we have in Rotary is a wholesome state of mind, and gives promise for improvement in the days to come?

I like to think that the pioneering days of Rotary have only just begun. What's 40 years in the life of a great movement? There are just as many new things to be done as ever there were. Kaleidoscopic changes are taking place, many of them without our will. Even to hang to the fringe of this fast-changing world is about all most of us can do. Rotary simply must continue to pioneer or be left in the rear of progress.

In this cataclysmic period our Fourth Object stands out in bold relief: "The advancement of in-

Rotary will ever need pioneering minds able to appraise fresh ideas.

By Paul P. Harris

IT WAS 1896 when Paul Harris hung up his shingle as a lawyer in Chicago. Wisconsin-born, he had grown up in Vermont, had obtained his law degree at the University of Iowa—and then, to study people firsthand, had filled the next five years with work and world travel as a reporter, teacher, fruit picker, actor, cowboy, mumble salesman, and cattle-boot hand. What grew from a meeting to which, in his ninth year in Chicago, he invited three other young businessmen is now history known around the world. As Rotary's Founder and President Emeritus, Paul Harris has visited all the continents, receiving the decorations of many nations. He lives with his wee Scottish wife, Jean, at "Comely Bank," their hillside home in Morgan Park, Chicago, and when in town can be found at his trophy-strewn desk of 35 East Wacker Drive.

ternational understanding, goodwill, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men, united in the ideal of service."

Here's a chance for pioneering if ever there was one. Rotary may be only a still small voice, but nevertheless it is a voice and there are none too many.

Two world wars within 20 years! It staggers the imagination. What hope is there in a world like this? Well, there's the still small voice. When it becomes loud enough to be heard by those on whose shoulders the greatest responsibility rests, we will have peace. We will keep up the still small voice and others are sure to join the cry.

This is a day of mountainous pessimism, but also a day of mountainous hope. When has there ever been a time in the history of man when so many folks are breathlessly listening to proposed terms of peace? In the case of World War I, who was interested in terms of peace? Where there was one in that day there are hundreds today.

To perpetuate the pioneering spirit, Rotary does not concern itself with mechanical devices, but does definitely concern itself with ideas. Ideas have at times lifted the gates of empires from their hinges.

When the Dutchman Grotius early in the 17th Century made his immortal plea for a world of law and order, he was cast into prison.

When Woodrow Wilson tried to preserve the integrity of the Fourteen Points, upon which surrender had been based, he was respectfully shown that in peace terms honor had no place. When he returned to his own country, his ship of state was left high and dry on the shores of oblivion. Such things had to be, but they were not without their lesson. If we can't grow in virtue, we can, at least, grow in wisdom.

To those who contend that no advances have been made in international thinking during the past 25 years, I would point to the treatment of war prisoners in camps both of Allied countries and of Germany. The "treat 'em rough" days have passed, and every humanitarian provision adopted by Allied countries is promptly reflected in the treatment of our own boys in German camps. If we can't be humane, let us be smart at least.

But there are other considerations. Our 7 million war prisoners will go back to their respective countries with high respect for our countries or else with hatred. Seven million released prisoners will have no little voice in the questions of "war or peace" which are bound to arise in the future.

We are slowly but certainly emerging from "wild bull" days of thinking to the age of reason.

"The psychological moment" is a phrase familiar to all men. It is full of meaning. We may well use it now. This period of the world's history is Rotary's psychological moment as far as our Fourth Object is concerned.

There is a Committee in the Rotary International setup designated as the Committee on Expansion of Functions of the Secretariat. What the research department is to industry, this Committee is to Rotary International. Its purpose is to keep the frontiers ever open to new, vigorous ideas.

Va tutto bene nel Rotary?, se così fosse, Dio abbia pietà di noi, saremmo alla fine dei nostri giorni..."
